PREFACE.

The Register of Baptisms, Marriages and Burials of the Parish of Parracombe provides an interesting example of how far an incomplete register can be improved by research among the existing transcripts of parochial registers at the Bishop's Registry. And it is a matter of great regret that these most valuable documents are not better cared for, put into proper order (by arranging them in parishes instead of years), and made more easily available for research work.

The oldest Register would appear to have been missing in 1687 when the present first volume was begun, as on its first page it is styled "The Register Book of Paraccombe." If so, its loss was caused by its removal to Combemartin during the incumbency of John Newell, who held the livings of both Parracombe and Combemartin at the time of his death, which occurred at Combemartin, although he was buried at Parracombe. ("1681. The 4th day of Feb. died Mr. Newell, minister of this parish, and was buried at Paraccombe ye Thursday after." Note in Combemartin Register.) If this was the case it shared the fate of the oldest Register of Combemartin, a few leaves of which were recovered in the 19th century by the Rev. H. W. Toms from a descendant of a former churchwarden of the parish.

Parracombe has suffered much from lack of resident rectors. Richard Corne, who began the first register, was a pluralist. He held the living for over fifty years (1510-1561), and was one of the large number of North Devon clergy who remained in the same living from pre-reformation times till well into Elizabeth's reign. His successor, John Heron, was also Rector of Alverdiscott, where he resided, and Registrar of the Archdeacon of Barnstaple. He was succeeded by Conan Bryant, who was also Rector of Challacombe. His son and successor, John Bryant, held also West Worlington. The next Rector, John Hayne, who only held the living for two years, was attendant on the Earl of Bath, to whom he became Chaplain. He was succeeded by Edmund Fountayne, who held the living for forty years (1626-1666), but two years after his institution, removed to Parkham on being presented to that living also; he appears to have occasionally resided at Parracombe, as his daughter Mary was baptized there on 23 Jan., 1635-6, but most of his children were baptized at Parkham; his son-in-law and successor, John Newell, before mentioned, was curate-in-charge during the latter part of Fountayne's incumbency, but latterly resided at Combe-martin. John Blackmore (1681-1730) was the first regular resident Rector for nearly 200 years, and it was not till 1826, when John Pyke was instituted, that there was another. He was succeeded by three Rectors who held the living under resignation bonds, John Frederick Chanter (1886-1916) being the third Rector in 400 years to be regularly settled in the parish. Under these circumstances it is almost a wonder to find the registers as perfect as they are.

On the other hand, it is remarkable that the advowson remained in the hands of the same family, St. Albyn, from the earliest date to which the Episcopal Registers go back till the 19th century, the last male heir of the main line being Lancelot St. Albyn, who was Rector of Parracombe 1762-1791; he held also the living of Wembdon, Somerset. During his incumbency he spent only one Sunday in Parracombe (on 4 June, 1769). On his death the estates and advowson went to his widow for life and then to the elder son of his nephew, St. Albyn Gravenor, who assumed the name and arms of St. Albyn—a second nephew, Lancelot Gravenor, becoming Rector of Parracombe, though he appears to have never resided in the parish.

For these reasons the signatures of a large number of curates appear in the Parracombe Registers, and the number was increased by the conduct of the last before the Rev. John Pyke, Rector 1826-1868, came into residence. Of this curate, the Rev. J. Fosse, it is related that after he had married a certain couple in the parish, they came up to the rectory an hour later and asked to be "unmarried," which so enraged the old gentleman that he gave notice the following Sunday: "There will be no more marriages in this parish by me—if you will get married you must get a parson for yourself." It appears from the register that this story is true, for the couple who wanted to be unmarried are the last for whom he officiated; and though he remained in the parish many years after and there were many marriages for which he filled in the forms, the name of the officiating priest is never the Rev. John Fosse. He is also said to have dropped the baby at a christening and to have refused to take another; and from the registers it appears that he did not personally administer the sacrament of baptism during the last few years that he was curate-in-charge.

The entries given in this transcript are contained in seven volumes, and till lately commenced with an entry on 9th April, 1687, but by means of the Bishop's transcripts they have been carried back to 1597; but there are several of the intervening years for which no transcripts could be found, and it may be possibly still further improved as there were a few bundles of transcripts that could not be properly examined owing to the different parochial returns being all stuck together, and careful treatment of these bundles might result in a few more years being recovered; but a long and exhaustive search was made by the late W. E. Mugford, which has resulted in more transcripts of Parracombe parish being found than of any other parish for which search has been made in the same period.

Volume I. consists of 31 leaves of vellum, the average size of the leaves being 330 mm. by 190 mm., and 2 sheets of paper; the fourth leaf has been damaged and the lower part of it cut out, it contained the baptisms for 1697 and for 1700 to Oct. 19, all of which have been recovered from the Bishop's transcripts. It contains:—Baptisms—14 May, 1687, to 2 Dec., 1747; Marriages—9 April, 1687, to 7 Nov., 1753; Burials—23 May, 1687, to 28 July, 1751. It was re-bound in 1902, the old dark brown calf cover being retained with new calf back and edging.

Volume II. consists of 2 leaves of paper and 27 leaves of vellum, average size 279 mm. by 192 mm. It contains:—Baptisms—7 Jan., 1748, to 10 Dec., 1794; Marriage—2 Jan., 1754; Burials—1 Aug., 1751, to 25 May, 1794. It was re-bound in 1902 in half calf, the old covers having totally disappeared.

Volume III. contains 3 leaves of paper and 32 leaves of vellum, the average size being 330 mm. by 122 mm. It contains:—Baptisms, 17 Jan., 1795, to 21 October, 1812; Burials—14 March, 1795, to 27 October, 1812. Also all the transcripts that could be recovered of the Baptisms, Marriages and Burials from 1597; also a list of Rectors from A.D. 1283 to 1886; Terriers of 1613 and 1720; population at all the censuses from 1801 to 1901; and various notes on matters concerning the church of Parracombe and its ornaments from 1889 to 1916. It is bound in rough brown calf.

Volume IV. is the usual form of printed registers used at this period. It contains:—Marriages—3 May, 1755, to 14 Nov., 1812, there being 138 entries and the rest blank; Banns of Marriage—5 Aug., 1754, to 2 June, 1822, there being 119 entries. It is bound in brown leather and is in somewhat bad condition.

Volume V., the usual form and size of parish register, bound in white vellum, contains:—Marriages—11 Aug., 1814, to 13 April, 1835, there being 53 entries and the rest blank.

Volume VI., usual form and size, in white vellum binding, contains:—Baptisms—7 Jan., 1813, to 23 Oct., 1898.

Volume VII., usual form and size, in white vellum, containing:—Burials—3 Jan., 1813, to present date.

Apart from the parochial clergy and their families, few names of people of what are commonly called the gentry class appear, and owing to the removal of the St. Albyn family in the 15th century from Parracombe to Alfoxton, Co. Somerset, which they acquired by the marriage of John St. Albyn of Parracombe to Joan, daughter and heiress of Richard Popham of Alfoxton, in 1439, there has never since been a resident squire in the parish. There were two other manors in the parish, Middleton and Rowley, but in neither case was there a manor house; but as dismemberment of all the manors commenced at an early date, there were a large number of yeomen in the parish, one of the earliest being a cadet of the family of Berry of Berrynarbor, and the marriage of Richard Berry with a Witchehalse of Ley, Lynton, occurs in the register. Another yeoman family of interest was Blackmore of Bodley, who appear in the registers first about 1630; the last of this family in the main line was Richard Doddridge Blackmore, the author of Lorna Doone, who till the time of his death retained an interest in the home and estate of his ancestors. Other yeomen families of standing, who also first appear about 1630, were Lock of Rowley (they ended about the latter part of the 18th century in a daughter, who married Roach) and Dovell of Hollworthy. But there appear to have been frequent changes in the population, and there is not at the present time a single descendant of any family whose name appears in the earliest register now resident in the parish.

We can recover the names of all the principal inhabitants of Parracombe at the time when parish registers were first begun from the Subsidy Rolls, 34 and 35 Henry VIII., which gives us 29 names with their assessments. They are :—

It will be noticed that while nearly all these names occur in the entries from 1597 to 1630 there are very few at the end of the 17th century, and after the end of the 18th century there is quite another set again. Very few of the families stayed more than four or five generations in the parish, and this tendency is still going on, and at the present day there are not more than three or four families residing in the parish who have been in it for more than five generations. And for this habit, which is so contrary to that which prevails in a large majority of Devonshire parishes, two reasons can be given: one is that the early dismemberment of the manors brought in men of sufficient substance to purchase freehold farms and become yeomen; the second was the large extent of common-land in the parish and the rights that pertained to it of grazing cattle on the royal forest of Exmoor, which was favourable to the labouring classes rising to the ranks first of small farmers, and then being able to migrate to richer farms and lands than they could find in the hill country of the Devonshire parishes that lie on the western slopes of Exmoor. The enclosure of the commons, which was so prevalent in the beginning of the 19th century, while it has brought much land into cultivation that before was of little value and has prevented the spread of "scab" among the flocks, has also resulted in making the rise from the position of an agricultural labourer, which was so easy before, much more difficult, as well as practically taking what belonged to all inhabitants and giving it to a few, viz., the landowners. Owing to this the population is more stationary now than in the 17th and 18th centuries. Owing to the sale of Exmoor forest, the grazing rights, which belonged to all the parishes that lay in the purlieus of the forest, of which Parracombe was one, have also been lost.

The surnames that occur in the registers present no points of interest—the few that seem peculiar owe their peculiarities to the vagaries of spelling. Some of the Christian names are uncommon, such as Urith, Ilatt, Isaat, Izatt, Frisott, Conan (a Breton or Goidel name brought in by an Elizabethan rector), Pasro, Pascha (both male names), Tryphena, Frideswide and Richord, the last, a female name, from the earliest period to the present day seems to have been a favourite one in the parish, though it is not often met with elsewhere.

Parracombe, though it is in a remote corner of the county, is well known, as it is traversed by the main roads leading from Barnstaple and Ilfracombe to Lynton and on over Exmoor to Somerset, and also by the railway from Barnstaple to Lynton. This, with its picturesque scenery, has made it in late years a tourist's resort. It lies between sea and moor, stretching from a point between Hunters Inn and the sea at Heddons Mouth, where the land is just above sea level, up to a height of nearly 1,600 feet on Chapman Burrows, the highest western point on Exmoor, a distance of about six miles, the valley through which Parracombe Water runs from the moor to the sea being one of the most picturesque in the county, narrowing as it gets nearer to the sea till it becomes a mere gorge between lofty and precipitous hills. In the maps the stream is called the River Heddon—but Heddon is the name of one of the hills at the mouth, the other being High Veer.

Like many of the Cornish and North Devon parishes, Parracombe has no real village, but has a church town and hamlets, viz., Parracombe Mill, Bodley, Rowley, Middleton and Heal; the latter four have shrunk away, but Mill has grown, and is now generally known as the village, for it lies alongside the main road, while Church Town is up above on the hill top with its old church dedicated to S. Petrock, the Apostle of Devon. It has escaped the ravages of the modern restorers, owing to a new one being built in the so-called village; consequently it retains many points of interest, such as the screen with its post-reformation tympanum, the three decker, the mixture of old oak benches and high pews, the seats for the choir and band rising one above the other at the west end. It is of all ages—the tower, Transition Norman ; the church, Early English, Perpendicular and 17th century. It was restored to the extent of being made wind and weather-tight, but without interfering with any of its internal fittings, by the efforts of the Rev. J. F. Chanter, the late Rector, and is used for all the services a Sunday or two in the summer every year.

The thanks of the Society are due to Mr. A. J. P. Skinner for making the transcripts, and to the Rev. E. E. Jackson, Rector, for permitting the use of the registers for that purpose and also for checking the proofs by them, which was a labour of love to one who knew them and the local names perhaps better than anyone else in the world, and to whom it has given much pleasure to write this introduction and preface.
